

Wildlife Middle East

NEWS

CONTENTS

Children get it spot on to save leopards

SPREAD AWARENESS ABOUT ANIMALS FACING EXTINCTION

Arabian leopard in danger

Malachi Bailey and Christopher Houston dressed in theme. Pupils from the Horizon School in Dubai had a fun day as they took part in activities which helped them learn more about the leopard.

© Francois Nel, ©Gulf News, Dubai

1. Editorial
2. Determining animal numbers is an intricate task
3. Impact of plastic bags on Arabian oryx in Mahazat as-Sayd Protected Area in central-western Saudi Arabia
4. Persian leopard project in Iran
5. Repair of a fractured plastron in a Green turtle
6. The importance of lighting for captive breeding projects
7. The house crow in the Middle East
8. Restraint of Przewalski's horses for reproductive studies
9. Reviews and News
 - The camel from tradition to modernity
 - Poison blamed for critical deaths of bald ibis
 - Children get it spot on to save leopards Abstracts

Wildlife Middle East News is published quarterly. It contains papers, reports, letters and announcements submitted by veterinarians, biologists, conservationists, educators, and other animal care professionals working with captive and free-living wildlife in the Middle East region. Contributions are not refereed, although every effort is made to ensure the information contained within the newsletter is correct, the editors cannot be held responsible for the accuracy of contributions. Opinions expressed within are those of the individual and are not necessarily shared by the editors. Guidelines for authors can be downloaded from www.wmenews.com

RAKBANK

Simply better شريكك لحياة أفضل